

Chulu far east peak climbing is an easy and popular peak in the impressive Annapurna region western part of Nepal. Climber approach is a base camp from the village of Manang. Technically, the Basic climbing experience is needed. This peak is not difficult for the summit, but sometimes can be slow depending on snow conditions and weather. This peak is the perfect choice for physical fitness and basic climbing knowledge. This peak was first ascended by the German expedition group in 1955 by via northeast side.

Climbers enjoy with the magnificent snow-capped mountain views Manaslu, Annapurna II, Gangapurna, Tilicho peak and neighbor mountains. The most common route base camp to the summit is via North-East Ridge. High altitude must be respected and complete acclimatization at the recommended time. After the summit, the trails continue to the Annapurna circuit (Thorong la pass). The Glacier Adventure Company has decades of experience team and carefully design itinerary.
